JAG Corps Recruiting

The Judge Advocate General's Corps is not just another law firm — it is part of our nation's history. You can join us as a full-time active duty Army officer serving our nation somewhere around the world in an Army legal office. You can become an Army officer but keep your civilian employment, working one weekend a month and two weeks a year, as a proud member of the Reserve or National Guard. You can join our superb workforce as a full-time civilian attorney working side by side with judge advocates around the world.

Judge Advocate General's School

The Judge Advocate General's School offers resident and nonresident education programs for judge advocates, civilian attorneys, military paralegals and Army court reporters throughout the world. The school also offers resident courses of study for senior Army commanders; prescribes legal curricula for other Army schools and activities; supports the military legal community by providing access to digital and written legal materials and other assistance; and develops doctrine for legal support of the Army.
